Question: Is Direct Care Staff Turnover Good or Bad?

Answer: The simple answer…it depends on who you ask. In practical terms high staff turnover contributes to short-staffing, staff not showing up, and inconsistent care.

If I were an Iowan who was aging (and I am) or had a disability and needed assistance in order to live independently, it could mean: I can’t get out of bed, get dressed, take a shower, go to the toilet, get a drink or nourishment; brush my teeth; or get to my job, doctor's appointment, or school.

If I were an Iowan living in a nursing home, it could mean: my call light isn't answered; I soil my clothing or bed because there isn't anyone to take me to the toilet; I may go without a bath or oral health care for days; health conditions go undetected and treated; I develop bedsores; and generally go unnoticed.

If I were working in the field of direct care, it could mean: I have to pick up the slack, work double shifts; or get called in on my scheduled day off causing me to miss important events or appointments. It means I am at greater risk of injuring myself on the job and suffering from high stress levels. It also means that when I leave at the end of the day I don’t feel very good about the quality of care I provided to those who depended on me.

If I were a director of nursing or a supervisor, it could mean: I have no time to provide or manage care because I spend most of my time hiring and orienting new staff.

If I were an administrator or owner it could mean: high costs associated with recruiting, hiring, and orienting new staff; fines imposed by the state for poor quality; and a damaged business reputation.

We often hear references to “good turnover”. And while I’ve not yet heard a “good” definition of “good turnover,” some employers explain that “good turnover” is when one retires, leaves due to the physical nature of the work or an injury, or moves to a different town or state. In some cases they further their education to become a licensed nurse or other health professional. And that is good because we need more nurses and other health professionals, too. These are all valid reasons for leaving although I'm not sure I would refer to all of these instances as “good turnover”. Consider this:

If those who work in direct care:

- Could specialize in oral health or other areas that don’t require as much lifting and risk for injury, some might postpone retirement and stay in the field longer;
- Could make a “good wage” some who go on to nursing, social work, or other caring professions might remain in direct care where they find the work rewarding.

And so…TURNOVER is TURNOVER. Good or bad it comes with a hefty price.

NOTE: It is important to point out that measuring staff turnover is no easy task. According to the Iowa Department of Human Services, the average annual turnover of CNAs in Iowans' nursing homes is about 60%. And according to the Department of Public Health’s Direct Care Workforce Initiative, the average annual turnover of those who work in all direct care settings is also approximately 60%. That only tells us that 6 in 10 leave their jobs every year. We don’t know where they go once they leave. Some leave the field entirely and some just move to another care provider. A survey of inactive CNAs on the state’s Direct Care Worker Registry was conducted several years ago. And while the economy, job opportunities, and other factors may have changed since that time, the findings are still worth noting. Review those findings at http://www.iowacaregivers.org/uploads/pdf/combinedrpt03.pdf
Health Workforce Center Will Ensure Workforce to Meet Future Demands!

Iowa CareGivers policy priority for the 2015 legislative session is to establish an Iowa Health Workforce Center within the Iowa Department of Public Health (IDPH).

JOIN US IN SHARING OUR MESSAGE: ACCESS TO CARE AND SUPPORTIVE SERVICES IS MORE THAN HAVING INSURANCE. ACCESS TO CARE ISN’T POSSIBLE WITHOUT A STABLE HEALTH AND LONG TERM CARE WORKFORCE!!

BACKGROUND: Multiple initiatives have studied the health and long-term care workforce. A common recommendation has been to establish an Iowa Health Workforce Center as a central coordinating point for all health and long-term care workforce initiatives, avoiding duplication of efforts. There needs to be a “home” established within IDPH that focuses on solutions already identified. It is now time to apply the recommendations.

Keeping a stable, talented workforce and creating a Culture of Care in Iowa requires a “vision”, a plan, and a sustained commitment by both public and private sectors. This would be a primary role of the Center, working in partnership with all of us who share a common vision.

Skills2Compete Coalition Supports Economic Security for Those in Direct Care

by Elisabeth Buck, Chief Community Impact Officer, United Way of Central Iowa

“…industry standards and compensation of these workers do not reflect their critical roles”

The Iowa Skills2Compete Coalition is a statewide partnership of Iowa’s business, community, education, legislative and workforce development leaders that serve as an organized voice for “skills” at the State’s Capitol. Annually the Coalition develops recommendations for state policies that grow Iowa’s economy by investing in its workforce.

In 2015, one of its recommendations is to create the Iowa Health Workforce Center by funding the center’s work in developing better statewide training and industry standards for the state’s direct care workforce.

In many of Iowan families most vulnerable moments, direct care workers are there, providing physical and emotional support. And yet industry standards and compensation of these workers do not reflect their critical roles.

Investing in the Iowa Health Workforce Center would help support the direct care workforce to work toward better statewide training and standards. The field of direct care workers needs to be professionalized. Furthermore, the patients, older Iowans, and people with disabilities needing the services of a direct care worker deserve the help of a professional, highly-trained worker. This Center would:

• Continue promotion and delivery of the “Prepare to Care” training for direct care workers
• Develop curriculum for specialty training in oral care, autism, mental health, dementia and other areas
• Advance and expand existing recruitment and retention initiatives
• Continue data collection and evaluation of these programs
• Monitor data on the supply and demand of the health and long term care workforce
• Develop strategies to improve the pay of direct care workers

It is time that direct care workers—pillars of emotional and physical support for the most vulnerable—can finally get the economic security they have long earned through their work.

STATE’S NEW ONLINE CORE TRAINING FREE UNTIL JUNE 30, 2015 — BE AMONG THE FIRST DIRECT CARE WORKERS IN IOWA TO COMPLETE TRAINING

Complete the Core and Qualify to Take First State Recognized Specialty in Oral Health Care!!!

Want to take control of your career, strengthen your resume, and develop knowledge, skills, and attitudes that will help you provide the highest level of care? Or maybe you are looking for some continuing education opportunities.

If so, Prepare to Care modules are for you! Each module has been designed to help you develop a specific set of skills – you get to decide which module fits your interests and learning needs best. The modules are: Home and Community Living, Personal Support, Instrumental Activities of Daily Living, Personal Activities of Daily Living and Health Monitoring and Maintenance. These can be taken as a single module, or a combination!

The only requirement to taking the above listed modules is the completion of the six-hour Core Module. Core is used as a building block for all of the other modules. You can access the Core module by checking with your employer to see if they have trained instructors, or check with your local community college. Or you can simply enroll on your own.

The “Core Training” is currently being offered for free online through June 30, 2015. This is a great way to see what the “Prepare to Care” program is about. The course is for those who are new to the field of direct care and those currently in the field. You can enroll in the “Core Training” by visiting: http://directcare.training-source.org/

Additional information about the Core module, the link for connecting to it and all of the other Prepare to Care offerings can be found at: http://iowapreparetocare.com or www.iowacaregivers.org

“I’ve been a Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) for 21 years, but there was so much knowledge I gained about Direct Support Professionals (DSPs) that I didn’t know. I took the “Prepare to Care” class online. I would recommend “Prepare to Care” to any Direct Care/Support Professional.” — Brigett DeVos, CNA

MOUNT CARE MATTERS
An Oral Health Training for Direct Care Workers

by Mary Ann Young, Iowa CareGivers Consultant

COMPLETE THE FREE 6 HOUR ONLINE PREPARE TO CARE CORE TRAINING BEFORE JUNE 30, 2015 TO QUALIFY FOR THIS ORAL HEALTH TRAINING (Central Iowa Only At This Time)

Mouth Care Matters (MCM) will develop and test an Oral Health Specialty Training for those in direct care. The Oral Health Specialty Training will become the first state recognized specialty under the State’s new Prepare to Care program. This training will increase access to and improve oral health care of older Iowans who are homebound or living in nursing homes, improving their overall health, comfort, and dignity.

Potential benefits of Oral Health Specialty Training include:

• Keeping consumers and clients healthier overall
• Providing much needed expertise for the direct care workforce
• Ensuring staff are safe and knowledgeable while performing duties
• Providing training on managing difficult behaviors during oral care, as well as on oral implants and equipment
• Increasing efficiency and easing time constraints for those providing direct care
• Reducing turnover by providing specialized, sought-after expertise
• Making oral health a priority

DAILY ORAL CARE = INFECTION CONTROL

THERE IS NO HEALTH WITHOUT ORAL HEALTH

by Carol Van Aernam, RDH, BA

DENTURES: Removable replacements for all missing teeth.

PARTIALS: Removable replacements for several missing teeth, some teeth present.

Question: Why do dentures/partials have to be removed for at least 4 hours every night or day?

Answer:
- To give the tissues a rest and prevent sores, infection and bad breath.
- Remove food, debris and germs from the mouth.
- Reduce the risk for Aspiration Pneumonia.

Question: Are you supposed to use a toothbrush or just soak them in a cleaner?

Answer:
- Use a denture brush or toothbrush to clean the dentures/partials
- Soaking is not a substitute for brushing

Question: Can regular toothpaste be used to clean dentures/partials?

Answer:
- No, it can scratch the surface of the dentures/partials.
- Use Denture Toothpaste, hand soap or mild liquid dish soap.

Question: Do dentures/partials have to be soaked when not in the mouth?

Answer:
- Yes. It helps to keep their shape.

Question: What can be used to soak dentures/partials?

Answer:
- Commercial denture cleaners
- Fresh clean water, not hot water.

Be a Voice for Positive Change
by Fran Mancl, Certified Nursing Assistant

“I felt insecure and intimated, even gripped with uncertainty and hesitation about speaking up but....”

State lawmakers, Senator Pam Jochum, and Representatives Nancy Dunkel and Chuck Isenhart, and then Representative-elect, Abby Finkenauer talked with seniors and staff at Stonehill Franciscan Services in Dubuque and engaged in a discussion on issues surrounding the senior-care health industry.

As a Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) at Stonehill, I immediately made plans to participate and take part in the discussion. In many respects, before the legislative forum began, I felt insecure and intimated, even gripped with uncertainty and hesitation about speaking up. But in my heart, as an Ambassador for the Direct Care Workforce Initiative, and being a direct care professional personally committed to supporting all direct care professionals and those they serve, I took several deep breaths and delivered my message and asked my questions.

MY MESSAGE WAS SIMPLE. I gave my credentials in terms of knowledge and experience in direct care. I then told the legislators and those present that I just wanted them to hear again how the direct care worker shortage and the high turnover rate deeply impact on me, my co-workers, and direct care professionals throughout much of Iowa. I shared how the impact creates stress because I don't have a supportive work environment to meet the needs and demands for quality care and service without a stable, consistent staff of direct care co-workers to share the workload and meet all the needed services of care.

Further, I indicated the need and value of having educational opportunities and standards for the direct care workforce, and to receive a just compensation for what that workforce does. Both of these would make for a more stable workforce that is competent/skilled and of good character and trustworthy. The direct care workforce needs to receive compensation that applauds direct care as a valued professional career and one in which a direct care professional can make a living.

MORE IMPORTANTLY, I reminded them that both intensive and extensive work has been done over the years and multiple recommendations have been made. More meetings, committees, commissions, and further pilot projects on direct care issues aren’t needed as much as some immediate action steps.

If I learned anything from the experience, it’s that we need to go beyond studying the direct care issues and being informed. We need to take a stand, speak out, communicate and talk with others; especially those in a position to take action that will bring about change. We need to take action based on our experience in direct care and what we know. Be a voice that is professional, positive, and potent with genuine concern for change where needed. Basically, be not afraid to tell our personal stories. I learned it can make a difference.

I thank the legislators and others who were present for genuinely listening and responding in a supportive manner to the issues surrounding direct care. It is my hope that because I shared my story and delivered my message, they will make direct care issues a priority during the 2015 state legislative session.

Sandi Koll, Volunteer: Lighting the Way
by Di Findley, Executive Director, Iowa CareGivers

“Longest serving volunteer helped plan first conference”

Over 20 years ago, the Iowa CareGivers held its first educational conference for those who work in direct care. I recruited a small planning committee made up of a couple of friends. Sandi Koll was one of those individuals. We had no money to promote the conference. Speakers donated their time. We had no “paid” staff to process registrations, and Des Moines Area Community College donated the meeting space.

I sat anxiously in our donated office space at Iowa Health Foundation, with my tapping fingers inches away from a tiny princess phone that rested on a huge executive desk that Dr. Tom Walz from the University of Iowa School of Social Work had refinished and donated. I waited….and waited….yep….and waited some more… knowing that hundreds and maybe even millions of direct care workers would soon be calling to register. Sandi and I stressed over what we would do if so many people came that the meeting space would be too small. That didn’t happen, of course, but ohhh…these are the things that dreams are made of. Every day the last week or two before conference, Sandi called asking, “how many people do we have registered” to which I replied… “counting you and me…two!” She never lost hope which restored my hope and in the end when about 30 people attended, she considered it a success and cause for celebration.

Sandi has served on the conference planning committee and hasn’t missed a conference since. When asked why she volunteers for Iowa CareGivers she said, “It’s FUN!” I love the last committee meeting just before conference when we (committee) all get together and put packets together. It’s always so much fun!”

Today Sandi is joined by our Program Director, Pam Biklen, and a committee of highly talented and committed volunteers from various walks of life. Last year nearly 350 registered for conference.

This year’s conference, “Passport to Direct Care” is August 24 and 25, 2015, at Prairie Meadows—The Meadows Events and Conference Center. Mark Your Calendars Now!

Passport to Direct Care

August 24 and 25, 2015

Prairie Meadows—The Meadows Events and Conference Center

Every day is an adventure for those of you who work in direct care! You may experience many unexpected challenges, but direct care provides you an opportunity to explore and discover what a wonderful journey you are on, especially being a part of the lives of those you serve.

This year’s conference will provide you an all-inclusive package of support, information, education, networking, and fun. You will receive a guided tour through a specially designed itinerary of workshops and motivational sessions for those who work in direct care. Your passport will also grant you access to many exhibits and community resources. If you’d like, we also offer special health and oral health screenings as a part of your tour package.

Watch our website, www.iowacaregivers.org and the mail for more information.
When direct care workers have been asked “What’s So Special About the Iowa CareGivers?” a common response has been… “Iowa CareGivers has our backs!”

We know that when we’ve got your backs that you can do what is important to you… provide the best care and support to the Iowans you serve. You’ve counted on us. Can we count on you? You can help support the Iowa CareGivers by making a “Got Your Back” contribution.

Your contribution may be tax deductible as prescribed by law. Donors will be listed in the Iowa CareGivers HUB newsletter unless otherwise instructed.
FINANCIAL FITNESS CHALLENGE
by Denise LaBuda, Financial Fitness Group

ARE MONEY SKILLS REALLY IMPORTANT? THE SHORT ANSWER IS YES!

We live in a world today in which each of us has a responsibility to learn about and manage our money so we can build security for our families and ourselves.

However, by almost any measure, Americans score a failing grade when tested on their money behaviors, attitudes and knowledge. Workers at all income levels struggle in their abilities to manage money, make investment decisions, improve their credit, and build savings for future needs like retirement. And to top it all off, financial stress impacts our health, our job, and our long-term financial stability. Many of these problems can be solved by learning more about how to make informed financial decisions.

To get more information about the Financial Fitness Challenge, a FREE online financial training program for those who work in direct care, or to learn how to sign up visit the Iowa CareGivers website at http://www.iowacaregivers.org/education/financial_fitness_program.php or www.financialfitnesschallenge.com

SIGN UP TODAY for the Financial Fitness Challenge that begins February 2015! You can start the program anytime until March 20!

CNA Gives Ultimate Gift: A Kidney to Husband of 30 Years
by Lori Krabbe, Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA)

My husband, Ken, and I are high school sweethearts. We just celebrated our 30th anniversary. In November of 2013, Ken’s Glomerular Filtration Rate (GFR) (a way of measuring kidney function) dropped drastically and the doctor put him in the hospital to see what was going on. His kidney function dropped in a matter of weeks when it should have taken years to happen. They did a kidney biopsy and said all the years of high blood pressure damaged his kidneys. We were faced with him in stage 5 kidney failure.

I had just started a new job. I am a CNA and started with a home health agency. With all his doctor’s appointments and vein mapping and surgery to put a fistula in, I decided to quit my job and take care of him. That was my focus.

He continued to work full time while battling all the side effects of stage 5 kidney failure. We made sure to get him on the transplant list as soon as possible. And starting with myself, we began to see who in our family would be a match to donate a kidney to him. I was a match, but had to lose 60lbs in order for us to be able to schedule surgery. So I started losing weight and when I hit a plateau I joined a gym and got a personal trainer. His health kept declining in front of my eyes and all the pressure was on me to lose the weight. It was hard to see. The first of October 2014, the surgeon called to check on us and see where I was with my weight loss, I told him my current weight and he said we were good to go to schedule surgery. It was set for December 1st, 2014. Our local news channel covered our story a week before surgery and was there to cover when we arrived at the hospital for surgery. I was released on Wednesday and he was home the next day on Thursday. We both have done great in the recovery process.

He is back to his old self and ready to go back to work February 2nd. I was out shopping and driving one week after surgery. My goal is to promote living donation so that we can decrease the number of people sitting on waiting lists.

The day of surgery, the doctor said he was only 4 weeks away from needing to start dialysis. It’s so nice to see how he is able to do things again and take care of himself as that was not possible before surgery. We had a long year of doing nothing, no trips, no walking, nothing because he didn’t have the energy and would fall asleep in the chair. We are so thankful that I was a match, surgery was successful and we have recovered nicely. It’s certainly nice to have my old husband back. 2014 was a big year for him. We had our 30th Anniversary on August 3rd, our first grandchild was born August 13, he turned 50 August 23rd and our transplant surgery December 1st. We have so much to be thankful for. I will continue to be a voice for living donation in the future.

Kim Downs
Howard Hammond
Mary Oliver
Sherry Oswald

“I have thoroughly enjoyed serving as a director on the Iowa CareGivers’ Board for the past 9 years and supporting its mission of education, advocacy and recognition for direct care workers. My passion is improving the quality and safety of health care in our state. DCWs are a vital part of the health care team and have an important role in the delivery of high quality, safe patient care. I look forward to continuing to work with Di and the entire Iowa CareGivers’ team as a board advisor and volunteer.”

– Kim Downs

“This organization, on many occasions has given me the opportunity to succeed, to grow in my profession, to become a better leader, mentor and communicator. I cannot express enough how much you all have meant to me in friendship and guidance.”

– Sherry Oswald

“I will fondly remember my years with CareGivers and the relationships built with staff, board members, and dedicated direct care workers. My best to you and others as you lead and make progress on the goals of the organization.”

– Howard Hammond
The Iowa CareGivers Direct Care Professional Leadership Council serves an important role for the Iowa CareGivers and the profession of direct care. They provide a voice to discussions, promote events that are important to peers, network in a variety of settings, and do all of this above and beyond their busy work schedules. For a list of council members, see page 11. Here are a few of their recent activities:

- I’ve been telling people about the benefits of the “Prepare to Care” program.
- I’m working many extra shifts at my place of employment.
- I distributed brochures on Iowa CareGivers and various programs at an in-service.
- I provided an in-service at my place of employment.
- I talked to a class of new CNAs.
- I talked with my co-workers about direct care issues.
- I voted in the elections.
- I talked to a class of new CNAs.
